

PLACK ROAD BICYCLE/PEDESTRIAN FACILITY

February 2011 Update

The environmental study for the project is progressing. We have completed the wetland mapping and are assessing potential wetland impacts. A consultant is investigating potential cultural resources in the area. Archaeological surveying of the area is expected to continue in the summer and we may be requesting access to private property in order to complete this effort.

We appreciate the many good comments we received at the open house last June. We are currently evaluating design alternatives and expect to be ready to present a proposed design in April. We will be seeking further feedback from the public and the environmental process will continue until a preferred alternative is approved.
